

SEWV Support Knowledge Base — 01: Email Response Playbook

For each email type: how to recognize it, how to respond, and what admin follow-up (if any) the human needs to do after the reply is sent. Admin steps reference full procedures in 02-admin-task-procedures.md.

Interpreting ESL student language

Many students write in fragments or non-native phrasing, so emails can read as cryptic or ambiguous. One important pattern: any mention of "subscription," "membership," a recurring/monthly payment, or "charged again" — however vaguely worded — should be read as referring to the Fearless Fluency Club Monthly Membership ($35/month, first month $5 via the standard /fluency checkout page). Don't assume they mean a different product (Yearly, Lifetime, a Challenge, Vanessa AI) unless they specify otherwise — Monthly Membership is the default interpretation for this kind of language.

The "Admin Actions Needed" label (general, applies across every entry below)

 Setup needed: a Gmail label called "Admin Actions Needed" should be created (not yet built — see 04-tools-glossary-and-open-items.md). Once it exists: any email whose entry below has a non-"None" Admin follow-up should get this label applied, so admins have a single priority folder of exactly what needs backend work, separate from emails that only needed a reply. This is a general rule, not specific to any one playbook entry — apply it consistently across #1–26.

Always include the checkout link

Per house rule: whenever a reply discusses joining a course (not just direct purchase requests) with a potential/prospective student, include the checkout link — the direct purchase page, not the sales/landing page. (For emails about a specific time-sensitive promotion, the checkout link will be a different, promo-specific URL that needs to be re-verified more often — check the current promo FAQ doc rather than assuming the general link below still applies.)

FFC Monthly Membership:

- Sales/landing page (do not send this as "the checkout link" — it's just marketing copy): <https://speakenglishwithvanessa.com/fluency/>

- New-student intro checkout link (triggers the $5 first-month price) — use for genuinely new students/leads:
https://speak-english-with-vanessa.teachable.com/purchase?product_id=3505735&couponcode=30OFF
- Full-price checkout link (no coupon — charges $35 from the start) — use for anyone who isn't eligible for the new-student rate (e.g. rejoining a Monthly Membership after canceling, or any existing/past customer):
https://speak-english-with-vanessa.teachable.com/purchase?product_id=3505735
- The couponcode=30OFF is the standing, consistent new-student rate (always $5 first month on the main /fluency checkout page) — not tied to a rotating promo, no need to re-verify it before sending.

Other known checkout links (need to confirm whether these are sales pages or true checkout links — flagging for follow-up):

- FFC Lifetime promo: <http://www.speakenglishwithvanessa.com/lifetime-promo>
- 150 Day Listening Challenge Bundle:
<http://www.speakenglishwithvanessa.com/150-lc-promo>
- 60 Day Word-Boosting Challenge:
<http://www.speakenglishwithvanessa.com/60wb-promo>
- ⚠ Still need: FFC Yearly-specific link, 30 Day Speaking Challenge (SC2), 90 Day English Challenge, English Worksheet Library, individual 30 Day Listening Challenge packs, Vanessa AI.

Checking what promo is currently running: if a student's email references a specific discount/promo that isn't immediately clear, check the master Promotions calendar spreadsheet (see 04-tools-glossary-and-open-items.md) — it lists exactly which promo is live in any given window, with the correct price, link, and coupon code for that period.

1. Recurring payment declined / "system won't accept my card"

Recognize: Monthly Membership student says a payment failed, asks to pay manually instead.

Respond: Explain this is usually the bank/card blocking a recurring charge, not a system error. They need to contact their card company and tell them to accept the recurring $35 charge from Speak English With Vanessa. There is no manual/one-off payment option for the Monthly Membership. Admin follow-up: None immediately — only if the payment fails 3x, see Procedure B (monthly non-member cleanup).

2. Cancel Monthly Membership request

Recognize: "Please cancel my subscription," "I want to cancel." Respond: Confirm it's canceled — no further payments will occur, and they'll keep access through the end of their current paid period (not indefinitely — Monthly Membership requires an ongoing payment to maintain access, unlike one-time-purchase products like the Challenges, which keep lifetime access). They're welcome to rejoin any time. Admin follow-up: Procedure A — delete subscription in Teachable, remove membership tag + add cancel tag in Kit. ⚠ Double check whether "Delete Subscription" in Teachable revokes access immediately or only stops future renewal — if it's immediate, this procedure needs adjusting so a plain cancellation (as opposed to a refund) doesn't cut the student off early.

3. "Why did you cancel?" follow-up response (student replies to the automated cancellation survey)

Recognize: Subject often shows as "I have a quick question" — this is the auto-send after someone cancels. Respond: Validate whatever reason they gave (money / time / fit — use empathetic acknowledgment for each), remind them they can still log in and study anything already purchased, and that they're welcome to rejoin anytime. If they're hostile/negative, de-escalate politely, don't get defensive. Admin follow-up: None — cancellation was already processed when they canceled.

4. Rejoin Monthly Membership after a break

Recognize: Past student wants back in. Respond: Welcome them back, give the checkout link — https://speak-english-with-vanessa.teachable.com/purchase?product_id=3505735 (full $35/mo — do not include the `&couponcode=300FF` part, since that triggers the new-student $5 intro price and they're not a new student). Critically: tell them to log in with their original/old Teachable account, not create a new one — accounts cannot be merged in Teachable. Admin follow-up: None special, but watch for tag issues afterward (see #5).

5. Reused the $5 new-student coupon multiple times

Recognize: Same person cycling join→cancel→join repeatedly using the intro coupon. Respond: Politely note the coupon is for new students only, and since they've used it before, going forward it will be $35/month. Don't be harsh — most people are just responding to the sales emails they legitimately receive. If they didn't get their materials, it's often because Kit's tag logic gets confused with repeated cancel/rejoin cycles. Admin follow-up: Check Kit tags are correct for their current status; may need to manually enroll (Procedure M) if the automation didn't fire correctly.

6. Failed/unsuccessful payment investigation ("transaction declined," "I can't complete my purchase," "my card isn't working")

Recognize: Student attempted to pay and got an error — this is a technical payment failure, distinct from #19 ("I can't pay" / "I have no money," which means they don't have funds at all and should usually just be deleted, not investigated). If the wording is ambiguous, "I can't complete my purchase" / "my card isn't working" / "transaction declined" = this entry (#6); a bare "I can't pay" / "I have no money" with no mention of an attempted transaction = #19. Respond: Usually caused by (a) a card that doesn't allow international purchases, or (b) a card that doesn't allow recurring charges. Give this checklist: card must be a real credit card (Visa/Mastercard etc. — not debit, not a Visa gift card) approved for international purchases. Debit cards and PayPal don't work for subscription payments but do work for one-time-payment courses. Bank transfers, checks, and cryptocurrency are not accepted. Known limited-card-access countries: if the student's name, email domain, or other context suggests they're in one of the countries below (the biggest ESL markets with this issue), international/recurring card restrictions are the likely cause and it's fine to explain that directly without digging further: 🇮🇳 India · 🇵🇰 Pakistan · 🇧🇩 Bangladesh · 🇷🇺 Russia · 🇰🇪 Kenya Admin follow-up: Check Stripe (search by email) for the specific decline reason/message and check Teachable to rule out a duplicate/misspelled account — except when the student appears to be from one of the countries listed above, in which case this step can be skipped, since the card-restriction explanation is already the known likely cause.

7. "I paid, but the site asks me to pay again" / can't access purchased course

Recognize: Confusion around login, not an actual double-charge. Respond: 95% of the time this is simply that they're not logged in. Confirm they have the correct tags in Kit and purchases in Teachable, then ask them to check they're logged in (send the login-screen screenshot if helpful) rather than assuming a billing problem. Admin follow-up: None if it's just a login issue.

8. No confirmation email received / misspelled email address at signup

Recognize: "I paid but never got anything," receipt shows a different email than what's in the system. Respond: Explain you're looking into it, and depending on the day/time follow Procedure D (business hours) or E (after hours / self-service). Admin follow-up: Procedure D or E, plus Procedure F if there's now a duplicate bounced entry in Kit.

9. Bounced email address in Kit (shows orange "Bounce" status)

Recognize: Especially common with iCloud, Yahoo, Hotmail addresses. Respond: Explain the email provider is blocking automated messages and you're getting it fixed; not the student's fault. Admin follow-up: Procedure G — contact Kit support to un-bounce, contact Teachable support to resend confirmation.

10. Can't download PDF / worksheet link doesn't work (esp. Korean "Naver" email, or other blocked providers)

Recognize: "I can't see the download button," "the link doesn't load." Respond: Explain many providers (Naver, and sometimes iCloud/Yahoo/Hotmail) strip download buttons or block the sender; tell them to manually add the sender to their safe/allow list. Attach the reference screenshots showing what the working email should look like. If they truly can't get it working, just send the PDF directly as an attachment. Admin follow-up: None.

11. Refund request — general

Recognize: Any "can I get a refund" message. Respond: Default policy is yes, no questions asked, even outside the nominal 30-day window — this avoids costly payment disputes, which the business usually loses anyway. Be warm and brief; don't interrogate the reason.

- Subscription products (Monthly Membership, Yearly): a refund removes access immediately. A plain cancellation (no refund requested) keeps access through the end of the current paid period.
- One-time-purchase products (Challenges — 30/60/90/150-day, Lifetime, and any legacy one-time courses): customer keeps lifetime access even after refund.
- Exception requiring a check with Vanessa/Ailsa first: refund requests for purchases roughly 6–12+ months old with heavy course usage and no clear reason (possible abuse). Admin follow-up: Procedure C (Teachable refund, within 30 days) or Procedure J (PayPal refund, 30+ days old or paid via PayPal) or Procedure K (special-case older refunds), plus confirming the cancel tag in Kit.

12. Payment dispute / chargeback notice from Stripe

Recognize: Internal notification that a customer has disputed a charge, often "canceled but charged anyway." Respond: No customer email needed — this isn't something a student ever emails about directly. Admin follow-up: We no longer contest disputes (Stripe evidence submissions are a lot of work and the bank almost always favors the customer anyway) — just delete/ignore the dispute notification. The only follow-up needed: if the dispute is about the Monthly Membership, check Teachable to confirm the student's membership was actually canceled (in case it wasn't caught properly before).

13. Grant early/full access to a challenge

Recognize: "Can I unlock all the lessons at once," "I want to go faster than one-per-day."
Respond: Full access is fine for any course, live or evergreen, as long as it's after the start date. Evergreen/self-paced courses (30 Day Listening Challenge packs, etc.) have no start-date restriction at all — always fine to grant full access. Live/date-bound courses or promos (e.g. an active cohort-based Speaking Challenge) just need to wait until after their official start date — once that date has passed, granting full access is no problem, even for a live course. Admin follow-up: Procedure L.

14. Can't find this month's module / not sure if they have access to the current module

Recognize: Active Monthly Membership student confused about the current module, or asking "how do I access [month]'s lessons." Respond: SEWV no longer uses a monthly "unlock" system — all modules are available to every Monthly Membership, Yearly, and Lifetime student at all times, and new modules are automatically added to everyone's account when launched (this happens 3 times a year). If a student can't find the current module, just send them the direct link to it, or tell them to log in and search for the module by name. To find which module is "current," check the 2026 Study Plan doc:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1RQmK_z48Y83lfJxSoP_GxJgfqzi5nmmh/view?usp=sharing — it names the current module and includes its direct link, which can be pasted straight into the email. Admin follow-up: None — no manual enrollment or Kit automation editing needed anymore.

15. Personalized/one-off discount request

Recognize: Long-time student or challenge alum asking for a special deal on another product.

Respond: There's one standing policy that doesn't need case-by-case approval: a Monthly Membership student (past or present) who has spent more than $200 total on FFC qualifies for a $650-off coupon on Lifetime ($350 total). If they've spent less than $200 total, they still get a $550-off coupon on Lifetime ($450 total — this is the standard/default Lifetime price). For anything outside this specific case, always double-check with Vanessa or Ailsa before offering a custom discount — that remains judgment-call territory, not a standard script. Admin follow-up: Procedure N. Check the student's total historical FFC spend in Teachable/Stripe to determine which side of the $200 line they're on — not time-in-membership, since someone could rejoin repeatedly at the $5 intro rate for months without crossing $200.

16. "What course should I take?" / course-recommendation questions

Recognize: Vague or specific requests for guidance on which product fits them. Respond:

Default policy — recommend only the Monthly Membership, nothing else. Lead with the one offer: $5 first month, then $35/month, checkout link <http://www.speakenglishwithvanessa.com/fluency> (see "Always include the checkout link" above for the direct checkout link to use once they're ready to buy). Do not mention Yearly, Lifetime, Challenges, or Vanessa AI at all in this context — the Yearly Membership is only offered as an upgrade path for existing members or during specific twice-a-year promotions, not something to volunteer to a new lead. If a student specifically asks whether there's a yearly option, then yes, tell them about it — otherwise don't bring it up. Exception — PayPal: if the student specifically says they want to use/need PayPal, recommend the 30 Day Listening Challenge: Passion (this is "Pack 5"/"LC5" internally — use the theme name, not "Pack 5," when talking to the student) instead, since PayPal doesn't work for recurring subscription payments like the Monthly Membership — only one-time-payment products. Checkout link:

http://speak-english-with-vanessa.teachable.com/purchase?product_id=4619323&couponcode=39OFF Admin follow-up: None.

17. Persistent/pushy "why didn't you answer me" or requests for 1:1 attention

Recognize: Repeated urgent-toned emails, requests to talk live/on video/WhatsApp, romantic or overly personal framing, escalating demands, disrespectful tone toward the team for not responding instantly. Important distinction: This is not the same as someone anxiously following up on a legitimate, real request (e.g. "I need a refund" → 10 minutes later "why didn't you respond, I need a refund" → an hour later "why haven't you looked at my email"). That kind of rapid follow-up is just an anxious person with a real, valid ask — handle it normally per whatever the underlying request is (e.g. #11 for a refund), don't treat it as "pushy." Entry #17 is specifically about people being persistent and pushy in an unprofessional or entitled way — demanding special/1:1 treatment, guilt-tripping, or badgering without an underlying legitimate request being ignored. Respond: Zero tolerance — no reply needed. Hold the boundary: no 1:1 lessons are offered, all live interaction happens in the group Sunday lesson / Facebook community. Don't reward escalating urgency with a faster-than-normal response (business SLA is 24 hours). Admin follow-up: Unsubscribe from the newsletter (Procedure O), and label the email "To Be Marked As Spam" / "To Be Deleted" (see note below) so it's out of the main inbox and available for an admin to double check if needed.

⚠ Setup needed: Two new Gmail labels — "To Be Marked As Spam" and "To Be Deleted" — need to be created so emails like this can be routed there instead of the main inbox, giving an admin an easy place to review/confirm before anything is permanently deleted. This ties into the inbox-labeling "next phase" work noted in 04-tools-glossary-and-open-items.md.

18. Collaboration / sponsorship / brand-deal pitches

Recognize: Someone pitching a partnership, guest feature, ad placement, product review, or similar business proposal. Includes follow-up nudges ("did you see my message," "just following up," "wanted to resend this"). Respond: No reply — don't even send the polite decline. Default is to label it "To Be Deleted" and move on. Responding at all tends to invite repeated follow-up hounding, and out of hundreds of these pitches over the years only a couple have ever turned into an actual collaboration — it's not worth engaging by default. Follow-up nudges get the same treatment: straight to delete, no reply. Exception: if the pitch is genuinely, clearly language-related (not just tangentially mentioning English or education), apply the Vanessa label so she can take a look — everything else gets deleted without her seeing it. Admin follow-up: Label "To Be Deleted" (or apply the Vanessa label for the language-related exception). No unsubscribe needed unless the sender is also on the newsletter and being a nuisance about it.

19. Financial hardship / can't afford the course (including politically or economically sensitive contexts — sanctions, war, refugee status, currency restrictions)

Recognize: "I don't have money," mentions of embargoed countries (Russia, Iran, Venezuela, Sudan, etc.), personal hardship stories. Distinct from #6 ("I can't complete my purchase" / "my card isn't working" — a technical payment failure, not a lack of funds). Respond:

- If it's a short message ("I can't pay," "I have no money," similar one-liners): delete without replying — this is the default for most of these.
- If it's a long, heartfelt message that genuinely explains their situation: reply warmly and sensitively — do not make light of, or reference political/humanitarian situations casually. Acknowledge the difficulty, note free YouTube resources are always available. Admin follow-up: For the long/heartfelt case, add the "Doesn't want promos" tag in Kit so they stop receiving sales/promo emails they can't act on (they'll still get the regular newsletter/free content) — this is now a standard action, not optional. Label the email "Admin Actions Needed" (see general note below) so this gets done.

20. Angry / hostile / rude emails

Recognize: Insults, "get out," aggressive tone. Respond: Generally no reply needed. Admin follow-up: Unsubscribe them (Procedure O).

21. Emails to delete without response

Recognize: Pure "thank you," "OK teacher," single-word replies, empty content, requests clearly outside scope (visa sponsorship, personal favors unrelated to English learning), duplicate/self-sent newsletter copies, spam-folder items with no real inquiry. Respond: No reply — just delete (or unsubscribe first if the person indicated they don't want the sales emails they're on, e.g. "please stop / I can't pay so please remove me"). Admin follow-up: Occasionally unsubscribe (Procedure O) if the message implies they don't want more sales emails.

22. Course check-in response (student replies to the automated "how's it going" email)

Recognize: Subject often "Quick question" (same automation family as the cancel-survey, different trigger — a check-in mid-course rather than post-cancel). Respond: Warm acknowledgment of whatever they shared; offer further support if they're a paying student and have a real ask. Don't offer unlimited scope of support to everyone by default. Admin follow-up: None.

23. Confusion about why their content differs from another student's ("my colleague has different modules")

Recognize: Comparing notes with another student and confused about differing content.

Respond: Explain clearly that SEWV currently sells the Fearless Fluency Club as Monthly Membership, Yearly, and Lifetime — but content differences between students are no longer about format (all three now grant access to the same full module library, since the old one-module-per-month unlock system was discontinued). If two Monthly Membership students see different content, it's more likely one of them just hasn't looked in the right place — send them the direct module link from the 2026 Study Plan doc (https://drive.google.com/file/d/1RQmK_z48Y83lfJxSoP_GxJgqzi5nmmh/view?usp=sharing), or have them search by module name after logging in. Note: separate one-time Level Courses (Beginner/Intermediate/Advanced) were discontinued as of July 1, 2024 and are no longer sold, though they may possibly return in the future — if a student references them, treat it as a legacy product, not a current option. Admin follow-up: None.

24. "I unsubscribed but was still charged"

Recognize: Student believed unsubscribing from the newsletter also canceled their paid membership — these are different actions. Respond: Clarify the distinction kindly (this confusion is common and not their fault), confirm you're canceling their membership now and refunding the erroneous charge. Admin follow-up: Procedure A (cancel) + refund the specific erroneous charge in Teachable/Stripe.

25. Full-content "General Notes" — always-on formatting reminders

Every reply should follow the standard format in 00-overview-and-workflow.md. Keep tone warm, encouraging, concise, and simple (many recipients are English learners).

26. China-specific situations

There's likely a dedicated Phrase Express snippet for Chinese students — this section will get built out further once the PE export arrives. For now:

Payment eligibility: Chinese students can join/pay for courses if they have an international credit card — respond the same as the general payment-troubleshooting guidance in #6, no special restriction to mention up front.

Access issues (Facebook group / Zoom): Chinese students often can't reliably access the private Facebook group or live Zoom calls due to blocking in China. Default response: recommend they watch the YouTube videos via a VPN instead, and let them know we'll update them if this changes in the future. Don't overpromise a fix — there isn't one currently.

"I found your course/videos copied on a Chinese platform": Reply with thanks for letting us know, but explain there's unfortunately nothing we can do about content piracy on Chinese platforms.

Companies offering to "help you get set up in China" (unsolicited outreach): Delete — SEWV previously had social media channels in China but discontinued them due to cost/complexity, and isn't pursuing this. Treat like #18 (collab/brand pitches) but default to delete rather than a decline reply, since these tend to be low-effort spam.

Admin follow-up: None for any of the above.

27. Day 4 and Day 6 replies — "7-Day FF" (Fluency Foundation) onboarding

Background: the 7-Day Fluency Foundation is the onboarding program every new FFC student goes through in their first 7 days — a daily task/tutorial pair walking them through the club's features. Full week structure (source: "7 Day Fluency Foundation" overview doc):

- Day 1 — Get Oriented: log in, find FFC, watch "Start Here" tutorial. No email involved.
- Day 2 — Study First Conversation Lesson: open the 2026 Study Guide, click the current month's module, watch first 15 min using the Conversation Breakdown Method. No email involved.
- Day 3 — Join the Community: join the private Facebook group (secret code: "English is fun"), post a short intro. No email involved.
- Day 4 — Connect With Me (Part 1): student replies to our email (or emails contact@speakeenglishwithvanessa.com directly) telling us why they joined FFC. We reply within ~36 hours (templates below).
- Day 5 — Learn With Me Live: attend/watch the Sunday livestream lesson. No email involved.
- Day 6 — Connect With Me (Part 2): student replies telling us about their experience so far — what they're most excited about, what seems trickiest. We reply with the reward: the Fluency Roadmap (script below).
- Day 7 — Unlock "Level 2: Fluency Roadmap": per the current (corrected) policy, this happens immediately as part of the Day 6 reply — not as a separate step.

 Note on the source doc vs. current policy: the overview doc itself still describes the old/retired policy — it says completing the 7-Day FF earns a "personalized speaking audit," separate from Day 6. This is outdated. Per Vanessa's correction, the reward is now the Fluency Roadmap, given directly in the Day 6 reply — no separate speaking audit, and no need to track/verify Day 4 completion first. This knowledge base (not the source doc) reflects the current policy — see the general note on this in 00-overview-and-workflow.md.

Day 4 reply — templates by stated goal (source: "7 Day Fluency Foundation Admin" doc in Drive). Pick the template matching what the student said their main goal is, and customize as needed. All variants share this structure: acknowledge their stated motivation → one sentence connecting it to what FFC offers → invite them to a "welcome hello" from the team (link: <https://drive.google.com/file/d/1E6oOnR2MtJ7v3xJeqyWEWxaEwBd0QhYL/view>) → "Let's get started!"

- General/default: "Thanks for sharing more about what motivated you to join the course! It sounds like speaking clearly and confidently is one of your main goals, and I look forward to supporting you on this journey. There are lots of great opportunities to practice speaking with people from our wonderful community. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"
- Grammar-focused: "...It sounds like speaking confidently is one of your main goals, and there are lots of great opportunities to practice speaking in our community. You will also be exposed to grammar and phrasal verbs in a natural way listening to real daily conversations. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"
- Listening-focused: "...It sounds like improving your listening skills in English is your main goal, and I look forward to supporting you on this journey. There are lots of great opportunities in the course to practice listening to a wide variety of accents. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"
- Speaking and listening combined: "...It sounds like listening with confidence and speaking clearly in English are some of your main goals, and I look forward to supporting you on this journey. There are lots of great opportunities to practice in the course with our welcoming community of amazing students from all around the world. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"
- Vocabulary/expressions-focused: "...It sounds like speaking confidently is one of your main goals, and there are lots of great opportunities to practice speaking in our community. You will also be exposed to new expressions and vocabulary in a natural way listening to real daily conversations, so that's a great way to pick up new phrases. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"
- Long-journey/motivation-focused: "...I like your attitude and perspective that language learning is a long journey, and setting ourselves up for success to stay engaged and motivated is so important. I understand that feeling confident in your listening skills is a big priority right now, and there are lots of great opportunities to practice listening to real native English speakers in the course. I look forward to supporting you on this journey. Our team would love to share a welcome 'hello' with you here! Let's get started!"

Day 6 reply — use this script (source: "Day 6 Reply" doc in Drive), customizing the bracketed parts:

Hi [name], Thank you so much for your email! I really enjoyed reading about your experience in the Fearless Fluency Club so far. [One sentence personal response] here] As promised, here is your Level 2: Your Fluency Roadmap (<http://www.speakenglishwithvanessa.com/roadmap>). In this video, I'll walk you through the best way to use the club so you always know what to study next. You'll also receive a monthly study calendar that I hope will make your English routine feel simple and manageable. Thanks again for taking the time to write to me. I'm excited to be part of your English journey, and I hope the roadmap helps you feel even more confident about what to do next. See you inside the club! Your teacher, Vanessa

Optional add-ins if the student mentioned a specific struggle:

- Can't find time to study: mention they don't need a full hour — even 10–15 minutes of focused practice adds up, and they can download the conversation audio MP3 to listen to on their phone.
- Not sure what to study next: that's exactly what the roadmap is for — follow the plan, don't try to do everything at once.
- Nervous about speaking: confidence comes from speaking a little at a time, not waiting until they feel "ready" — small steps build up over time.

 Outdated policy note (retired as of ~July 2026): previously, instead of the Fluency Roadmap, finishing students were given a personalized speaking review, which required tracking who had replied to Day 4 (to confirm they'd genuinely completed all 7 days before getting the review). This is no longer necessary — the reward is now just given directly in the Day 6 reply, so there's no need to cross-check Day 4 replies anymore. (A few students may still receive the old speaking summary for about a week during the transition — not a concern.) New rule: if a student's Day 4 or Day 6 reply mentions an issue or problem with the course (not just general feedback), tag Vanessa after the email has been handled — she may want to use it to improve FFC. Expected to be rare. Admin follow-up: None currently (the old Day-4-tracking step is retired), except tagging Vanessa in the rare case of a student-reported course issue.
